

Kelsey
Harrison

power

Fifteen year-old Kelsey set her sights on the Alabama School of Fine Arts (ASFA) from an early age. “I didn’t even really know what it was, but it said ‘Art’ and so I was like, ‘I wanna go there,’” she says. Kelsey, now a sophomore student, has an eye for photography and mixed media work, with an affinity towards textiles. She showed and sold several pieces at Avondale’s Art in the Park in October. “It’s weird to think about [my] art hanging on some person’s wall—some stranger.

But, it’s cool.” “I like the fact that my art is out there.”

Photo by Stephen DeVries